3. Risk Factors and Management perception of the risk factors for the Company (i.e. sensitivity to foreign exchange rate fluctuations, difficulty in availability of raw materials or in marketing of products, cost/time overrun etc.)

Stock Price Volatility: Stock prices can be unpredictable due to various factors like business performance, economic conditions, competitive dynamics, and changes in fiscal policies both in India and globally. These fluctuations can result in unforeseen gains or losses. The company's financial performance, market conditions, and global economic developments can all contribute to price swings. Management shall address this by providing market insights and timing guidance. Additionally, any new issuance of equity shares by the company or sales by significant shareholders may negatively impact the stock price. It's crucial for employees to stay informed about market trends and company performance to manage their investments effectively.

Liquidity Issues: Employees might face difficulties selling shares if the stock lacks liquidity. This can limit their ability to convert shares into cash when needed. Management shall counter this by offering flexible exercise windows and guidance on selling restrictions. They will also provide information on market conditions to help employees make informed decisions about when to sell. Employees are encouraged to plan their transactions in advance to avoid liquidity issues.

Tax Implications: Selling shares in an Indian company incurs capital gains tax and securities transaction tax. Exercising stock options may also lead to significant tax liabilities. Company shall provide access to financial advisors who can assist with tax planning and ensure compliance with tax regulations. Understanding these tax implications is essential for employees to manage their financial obligations effectively. Proper planning can help mitigate the impact of taxes on their overall returns.

Employment Termination: Departing employees might need to exercise options quickly, which could impose financial strain. This can be challenging if they need to liquidate assets or cover unexpected costs. To mitigate this, flexible exercise periods shall be available, allowing employees more time to make decisions. Additionally, management shall offer support and guidance to help employees navigate the transition smoothly. It is important for employees to understand their options and plan accordingly to ease the financial impact.

Disasters: Natural or economic disasters, such as cyclones, floods, terrorism, or pandemics, can severely impact stock value. These events can disrupt business operations and affect financial stability. Management shall prepare contingency plans and provides support to handle these crises effectively. They also keep employees informed about potential impacts on their investments and offer resources to help manage through challenging times. Awareness and preparedness can help mitigate the effects of such events on stock value.

Insider Trading Regulations: Employees must avoid trading shares based on non-public information or violating SEBI (Prohibition of Insider Trading) Regulations and the TPL Plastech Limited – Insider Trading Code of Conduct. Management offers training on compliance with insider trading laws to prevent legal issues and ensure that all employees understand the regulations. Adhering to these laws is crucial for maintaining ethical standards and avoiding potential legal risks.

By addressing these risks with clear communication, financial resources, and strategic planning, management helps employees optimize their ESOP benefits while minimizing potential downsides.

The Company shall disclose the same to the Option Grantee/s at the time of each grant.

4. Continuing disclosure requirement: The Option Grantee shall be provided copies of all documents that are sent to the members of the Company. This shall include the annual accounts of the Company as well as notices of meetings and the accompanying explanatory statements.
